Adrianople, April 29, O. S.

ON the 24th Instant Mr. Stanyan, one of the Ambassadours of the King of Great Britain for the Mediation, made his publick Entry here. On the same Day the Mufti was removed, and another put into his Room. Yesterday when Mr. Stanyan and Mr. Wortley, the British Ambassadours, were going to their Audience of the Grand Vizier, an Account was brought them that he was also deposed, and that Ibrahim Bassa, who is the Grand Signior's Son in Law and Favourite, was put into his Place. However, this Change was made with such Dispatch, that it did not delay their Audience above an Hour; and then their Excellencies went together, according to Custom, to take it of the new Vizier; who on that Occasion declared, that his Predecessour was removed for no other Reason than his not being so well inclined to Peace as the Grand Signior wished, and therefore that this Change would be so far from making any in his Measures towards it, that it would be a Means of finishing much sooner the Negotiation, by removing the chief Obstacle thereto. The Vizier desired Mr. Stanyan to acquaint Sir Robert Sutton with this Step, that he might explain it to the Emperour's Ministers, for fear they should otherwise put a wrong Construction upon it. This Morning Mr. Stanyan had Audience of the Grand Signior. Mr. Wortley intends to be going from hence for Constantinople in five or six Days, in order to imbark for England.

From the Camp near Passarowitz, May 16. On the 4th Instant Sir Robert Sutton, one of the British Ambassadours for the Mediation, arrived near this Place, and spent the next three Days in visiting the Quarters, and regulating other Matters relating to the Congress. On the 8th the Plenipotentiaries of the Port pitched their Tents in the Place marked out for their Camp, and Count Colyer, the Ambassadour of the States General, encamped near them. Count Virmont, one of the Imperial Plenipotentiaries, and Sig. Ruzzini the Venetian Ambassadour, are since arrived, and have taken the Quarters at Passarowitz which M. Talman had marked. But the Turkish Plenipotentiaries refusing absolutely to remain in their Camp, by reason of the Distance of the Water and want of Forrage, Sir Robert Sutton was obliged to mount on Horseback, view the Ground on their Side of Passarowitz, choose them a new Camp to the Satisfaction of both Parties, and assign Places for the Conferences, and for himself and Count Colyer to encamp in; those at first designed for that Purpose being improper after the Change of the Situation of the Turkish Camp, and otherwise very inconvenient. The Quarters which the Ministers Mediators now have, are at an equal Distance of about three Quarters of a League from those of the two Parties, as the former designed for them were. After this, the Turkish Ambassadours producing their Full Powers to the Ministers Mediators, who communicated them to the other Plenipotentiaries, they were judged to be defective; first, because the Emperour is therein styled German Cæsar, whereas the Grand Signior in his Letters to his Imperial Majesty hath several times given him the Title of Roman Emperour; and the second Exception taken to them, was, that they are not signed by the Grand Signior with his own Hand. The Turks affirmed, that the said Full Powers are intirely conformable to those which were accepted at former Treaties. And whereas it was further objected to them, that they did not appear authorized, by any Instrument in Form, to treat with the Venetian Ambassadour; they answered, that they held themselves fully empowered to do it by an Article of their Instructions. But that Article being perused, it was not judged perfectly sufficient. Whereupon the said Plenipotentiaries of the Port dispatched Yesterday an Express, to be accompanied by fourteen of their Servants as far as Nissa, for new Powers and Instructions, which are expected within 24 Days at farthest.
